

TRAIN lag-product structure: spectrum-preserving phase controls

One predefined clip per TRAIN group; three randomized-phase controls each; 1-100 kHz peak search.
 Peak concentration is descriptive, not a p-value, protocol label, or separation score.
 Zero lag measures envelope power; transients can create peaks without sustained repetition.
 MHz labels are VTSBW metadata, not measured occupied bandwidth.